

China Sees Japan War Declaration

SHANGHAI, Oct. 8 (AP)—Gen. Iwane Matsui, Japanese commander-in-chief on the Shanghai front, issued a proclamation today—the first official announcement of the Japanese invasion of China—declaring that the Japanese government would not be diplomatically forced to declare war.

General Matsui declared the Japanese army "is now prepared to use every means to achieve its purposes."

In view of previous declarations of Japanese army and navy spokesmen, observers considered this the verbal promise of the Japanese government that the "China threat" was again endorsed at the highest level, while a few splashed in the water only a few hundred yards away.

LONDON, Oct. 8 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden today personally expressed the British government's "gratification" over President Roosevelt's Chicago speech to the American chamber of commerce, and told him that Great Britain considered it a "real contribution" toward peace.

At the same time, informed sources in the coming nine-power conference to deal with Japan, Mr. Eden said that the British government was "not prepared to accept a 'peace-keeping' role" and also went over the procedure to be followed in the coming nine-power conference to deal with Japan.

Duke to Remain Forever Exiled From Homeland

Gone From Home for All-Time

Old Guard Pressure Force Him to Drop Plan to Return

PARIS, Oct. 8 (INS).—Reluctantly bowing to constant pressure from old guard Tory circles, the Duke and Duchess of Windsor have now abandoned all idea of ever returning to England.

This, International News Service learned today, is the real reason they have decided to visit Germany and the United States in the near future.

The trip they have mapped out is scheduled to be the forerunner of many years of travel before they take up permanent residence somewhere outside the shores of the former king's native England.

Realizing the opposition in England to his return was so deep-seated it probably can never be overcome in his lifetime, many of the Duke's friends urged him to emulate the example of former Kaiser Wilhelm.

They suggested he set himself up in some secluded castle in exile, such as Wilhelm did at Doorn, and there live out his days in the hope that someday he might be invited to return.

This proposal, however, and at length he rejected it on the grounds such stagnation would be alien to his nature.

However, he is anxious not to live the world the impression he is a playboy, so as a compromise decided to spend some time in traveling and studying working with Cuba and the Hawaiian Islands.

Meanwhile, arrangements for his forthcoming tour heard completion.

The German foreign office is handling all arrangements for his visit to the Reich. With his bride, he will travel mainly by automobile.

In all probability the couple will spend two weeks in Germany and will be in the United States early in November. They have not yet decided whether they will be in the United States or not.

But this one because of the reason that they will be in the United States for one month duration, and after that they will seek a winter of sunshine, with Cuba and the Hawaiian Islands both under consideration.

The Duke will keep a daily record of his trip and contemporaries will be a book with it. In this respect he will be one great difference. While Wilhelm chose to write a book, the Duke will write a diary at length on Chinese politics, Windsor will write a book on the world's most famous topic—sexology.

Churchill Confirms Windsor's "Exile"
London, Oct. 8 (INS).—News of the Duke of Windsor has abandoned all hope of returning to England was confirmed today by Randolph Churchill, son of the former British Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Churchill, who saw the Duke in Paris today, sent a special dispatch to the London Evening Standard telling of Windsor's decision.

Boy Pulls Alarm During Fire Drill
It was only a regular fire drill today at English High School in the South End, so teachers were pretty well surprised to hear fire engines and sirens when a boy was seen tearing into Montgomery street and Warren avenue.

Investigation disclosed that one of the youths at the school had used the book on the fire bell sounding a real alarm. Questioned by police he said he thought it was a real fire and so had pulled the box.

Nantucket Offers Haven Of Privacy to Windsors
NANTUCKET, Oct. 8.—A king-dom where even the cats may not look at their king is promised Edward of Windsor and Wallis of Baltimore if they decide to accept Nantucket's offer of a limited monarchy.

As an added inducement to the glowing picture the ardent, personal secretaries of the picture-quest colony have painted for the Duke of Windsor, they will now guarantee absolute privacy.

Autograph hunters, newsmen and cartoonists, the idea comes they're out.

WHAT ABOUT SERPENT?
The only supernatural element in their royal lives—and the Duke and Duchess will have to take their chances on this—will be the erratic appearance of Nantucket's now famous serpent.

But if they are rescued from a snake-hole walk by the green-eyed monster, and want to forget it, they can always find a goodly com-

One of the finest photos of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor to be made since their wedding at Cannes last spring is this one, showing the couple at the Paris International Exposition. They were photographed as they left the Canadian Pavilion a few days before the duke announced that he would visit the United States to study housing and labor conditions.

Wally Is Offered Patients Unhurt Her Old Home In Ceiling Fall

HAVERHILL, Oct. 8 (AP).—Twenty-two East Middle street, where little Wally Wallis Wallis lived, was the scene today after a patient of the hospital died. The patient, a woman, was found in a rooming house, and the police are looking for the Duke of Windsor as "home."

The duchess' childhood residence, operated as a museum and a shrine to Royal Romance, was thrown open to her and her royal husband when she returns here this fall for a visit.

"Dear Duchess," wrote Catherine Carter, curator of the house, "the announcement of your planned visit to our shores is an occasion we hope will permit the opportunity for his Royal Highness and your family to review some of the scenes which recall pleasant associations."

Accused Maine Man Surrenders
PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 8 (AP).—Police Lt. Harry C. White said he would turn over to Sheriff Henry E. Russell, today, Leroy Baker, 38, Portland, accused of forcing Mrs. Marion Joy, 28, South Windham, to sign, at gun point, about 25 blank checks.

Baker, the policeman, surrendered at headquarters here late last night, saying "I want to square up my life."

ONE ISLE FOR ANOTHER
Edward, abdicating his post for a better class of royalty on the market than for many years to Mrs. Baker and Baker's nobility were not willing to accept odd-jobs driving and carting in moving picture or marrying American heiresses.

And while the more ardent advocates of monarchy are already embroiled in arguments as to where to place the royal palace and who shall be admitted to the king's court—should Edward accept their offer—they point out he would be only giving up one island for another.

After all, there can't be much difference in islands.

Farewell To England Forever

Divorce Try Failed; Wife Now Rues "Goldfish" Story

The renowned Paul Longos of Winchester, who last year, Paul Longos and his pretty, 20-year-old wife, Edith were battling bitterly in the divorce court.

Edith failed in her attempt at legal parting and early this year the couple quietly became reconciled.

Now they are parents of a daughter, born three weeks ago and weighing nearly seven pounds at birth. Thus far the baby has not been named.

All was peace and calm still at the Longos home, 11 Chesterford road, east, in Winchester, a Spanish type building here.

Edith, 21, said she had a pleasant baby buggy was on the lawn.

It was partly around the husband's alleged cruelty to Mrs. Longos which the divorce testimony in the couple's now famous court fight centered.

Mrs. Longos, who was formerly Miss Mitchell of Medford, a Lowell Seminary student, before her marriage, still has goldfish.

"I said, 'I want to see you about goldfish in my testimony,'" she declares, "and I'm afraid it will never be forgotten. But we want to forget it. We want to forget it."

"I made a mistake and I realize it."

Jilted December Offers Girl Her Old Job

Despite His Sorrow At Her Plans to Wed Another

Pretty well confused was romance today along the South shore, with a 20-year-old engineer, jilted, his 20-year-old former housekeeper, promised to another, but with no bride in sight until her new, 20-year-old fiance can clutch him a job.

To make it slightly more confusing, William D. Parker, elderly former realty partner of Governor Butler, has offered, despite his sorrow, to give Miss Eleanor M. Hilla of East Weymouth her job back—married or single.

Last Tuesday the elderly Westmouth Heights engineer, and Miss Hilla, filed marriage intentions in that town.

On Tuesday night, however, Eleanor and George King, 21, of Braintree, started with another couple on an elopement to New York, N. H., but the car broke down and so did the elopement—the romance money going for wedding repairs.

Nevertheless, she went on Wednesday to Parker's home and returned her house engagement ring, telling him she had married King.

Last night, however, the elderly engineer stated her at her home where King was present.

"I don't want your job back, married or single, you can have it," the jilted one told her.

She declined the offer.

The engineer was riding somewhere on the Cape, with his dog for company, while Eleanor and King tramped around looking for jobs.

Study Raft For Clues To Amelia

Life Device Found Cast Up on Shore At Hawaii

HONOLULU, Oct. 8 (AP).—A deflated rubber life raft, tossed ashore at Hawaii, the northwest tip of Hawaii Island, spurred investigation today of its possible connection with the disappearance of Amelia Earhart on her ill-fated globe-circling venture.

The raft, bearing the trademark "J. Lansing Olin, Air Raft," the boat in the Bag, Hammond, New York, was found yesterday.

F. Marvin Quinn, of Honolulu, and Air Cruisers, Inc., of Hammond, N. Y., a firm controlled by his brother, Commander J. Lansing Olin, had constructed a special rubber raft for Miss Earhart's round-the-world flight.

No numbers or printing other than the trademark were discernible. The raft contained two seats and one pair of leather air shoes.

It was believed by authorities at the Navy flight base here, in finding there was a possibility the raft was one carried by Miss Earhart, and he was positive it was not a Navy raft.

Hawaii Inter-Island Air lines said the raft was not one of theirs which had disappeared July 2 in the vicinity of Hawaii Island about 1500 miles south of Honolulu.

Charles Lindbergh, flying toward Hawaii from the northeast, said he had seen a deflated life raft floating off the coast of Hawaii, but he did not land, he said, by striking against rocks.

Missing Girls Believed On Way Here

Sought by Police After Leaving Maine Academy

Belfast, Maine-bound, two 16-year-old Maine schoolgirls were sought by state police here today after they had run away from the exclusive Gould Academy at Bethel.

They are Christine Cunningham of Bangor Lakes and Barbara Tyler of Portland, who disappeared mysteriously Wednesday night taking a suitcase packed with clothes with them.

School officials, who reported their absence last night, said they could find no reason for the girls' disappearance. They left no note, and fellow students failed to observe their "fresh leaves" as one of the directors of the academy put it.

They were seen in bed at 10 p. m. They were gone at 6:45 the next morning.

The girls were dormitory maids, it was said, and had been since since this semester.

Christine, an attractive, gray-eyed beauty, was a second-year student and Barbara, a pretty girl with brown eyes and dark brown hair, according to a description furnished by police.

It was believed by authorities at the school that the runaway stepdaughters were heading toward their trip and state police were asked by Maine officials to keep a sharp watch for them.

The mother of Miss Tyler, Mrs. Barbara Flanders, secretary of a Portland hotel, revealed today that her daughter had run away from home in New York City last fall.

The Cunningham girl is the daughter of Mrs. Mabel Thomas of Bethel.

THE SENATOR Suddenly Returns To Surprise Pals

THE SENATOR:

For a Friday morning there is quite some hush around and about, and in fact there is quite some hush for practically any morning as Timmie tidies up with a swish here and a swish there and a rub of a glass or two, although by no means can anybody see he is getting anywhere.

There is only an occasional shudder to break this still hush as Timmie does his tidying, and to tell the truth there comes sometimes a chorus of such shuddering from several lads present, and any keen eye can lay five for one that these lads do not spend the previous eve, for instance, at a Peter Tschakowsky concert.

It is little wonder that with such personal concerns there is no one present who gives a gleam to a bulky party that shuffles up to the mahogany and then removes his skimmer and parks it carefully on the bar.

So the stranger sits impatiently after a bit and he makes noises back of several chins and he says like this:

"Har-r-rumpff, har-r-rumpff, har-r-rumpff."

Well, in his time Timmie has heard a sound or two and this is quite some familiar sound and he looks up. Then he stops his tidying and he rubs his eyes and he yells:

"Senator!"

Senator Answers Everything— Except Where He Has Been

At this yell, an even half dozen of the shudders come right off the floor, a foot high here and two feet there, but neither Timmie nor The Senator gives a glance to that, because they shake hands at this point and Timmie forgets he has the wet rag in his hand until it is too late.

"Fudge, Timmie, you are still up to your old ones," says The Senator, dropping the rag like a clammy fish.

"Senator, you olson-av-a-gun, where've you been all these months?" asks Timmie, reaching around in back. "No, Senator—on the house."

These are such words as make The Senator rub his hands and he remarks:

"I must stay away longer more often, Timmie. In fact I must stay away oftener not so long. I mean—well, how've you been, ol boy?"

Naturally Timmie does not think this needs an answer, especially when he is pouring, but he says instead:

"Senator, you give me such a shock as I do not get for many a day. Where've you been since last Fall?"

The Senator takes a sip at this point and he breathes like this, "Ah," and then he says:

"Well, Timmie, the old Senator's been around and around and where he stops nobody knows, so it does not matter. And I give it quite a thought to remain out of town during this campaign—like the attorney-general. Paul Dyer, you know, Timmie—but it's on the blood and I come back."

"So here you are."

Shows He Still Has His Ear On The Political Third Rail

"So here I am," agrees The Senator taking another sip.

"And I hardly start up here from the choo-choo when I pick up a little hint that Tom Dorgan is clear out of the city council fight in Ward 17 say time now to clear the way for other Democrats jousting against Bob Wilson's reelection plume in Dorchester. And until then I do not even know Tom is running."

"Because you been away," reminds Timmie.

"Because I been away. And another thing, Timmie," continues The Senator after he uses his tumbler to fill, "I also hear that John McCormack, the congressman, likewise probably takes a little trip out of town soon and keeps out of the mayoral scramble. And this is very smart, Timmie, because there's all green lights in the road for John at D. O."

"At D. O. Senator?"

"The District of Coandrum, Timmie. You know—where Black is white."

There comes an interruption here while The Senator is clapped on the back by a long, skinny party and after their palms cross with a slight clinking sound, The Senator makes a wry face and turns back.

"Pay no attention, Timmie. One of my old constituents. Where was I?"

"You were in supreme court, Senator."

At this The Senator carresses his rotund waist thoughtfully and remarks:

"There could be worse, Timmie; there could be worse. But I must be on my way to gossip corners. From what I hear this comes up an exciting month, what with one thing and another, and I must pick up the raveled skein."

The Senator eyed his glass thoughtfully.

"Three strikes and out, Senator," cracks Timmie, and does the honor.

"Thank you, Timmie, my boy; thank you," acknowledges The Senator, "and I soon come back with news."

'Rocky Joe' Faces Court For Calling 'Aunt' Witch

4800 Lawrence Workers Form Own Union

Pacific Mills Help To Be Independent Of Outside Groups

LAWRENCE, Oct. 8 (AP)—Employees of the worsted division of the Pacific Mills have formed an employees' association to act as bargaining agent for its own members. William Shearer, president of the association, announced today.

Declaring a majority of the 4800 employees in the worsted division were members, Shearer said Mill Agent E. D. Whelan had assured him the company would confer at any time with the association in regard to its own members, but felt free to confer with any other union or association which represented other employees.

Employees of the neighboring American Worsted Mills are represented by the Textile Workers Organizing Committee, a CIO affiliate.

Formation of the association in the Pacific Mills was the first since the recent visit of Mayor Poretti to Lawrence of New York, who addressed several thousand mill workers on the eve of a national labor relations board election for a bargaining agent.

The Pacific Mill employees did not vote in the election.

In his speech, Lawrence urged the workers to organize. He did not favor any union or association.

For the third time this charming young socialite actress, Rosemary Ames, is finding that love and a career don't mix. Her husband No. 3, Albert J. Stillwell, Chicago banker, is suing her for divorce, charging desertion.

Rosemary Ames Divorce Sought

CHICAGO, Oct. 8 (AP)—In what the wife described as a "friendly" action, Albert J. Stillwell, prominent Chicago banker, today filed suit for divorce against Rosemary Ames, actress and social leader.

Explaining how he arrived at the conclusion that talking and stage careers would not mix, Stillwell, vice president of the Continental Trust Bank & Trust Company, said after he had filed suit.

"Miss Ames is a most charming person, but she is interested mainly in her stage career, and I am interested pretty much in banking."

The action charges desertion. Miss Ames, who had left Stillwell, her third husband, less than a year after their marriage in Chicago, March 24, 1935.

Three-day Hike To See Mother

Boy and Baby Sister Camp Out at Night

RUTLAND, Vt., Oct. 8 — A 31-year-old boy and his 9-year-old sister, who conquered their fear of the dark to attempt a hitchhike to Portsmouth, N. H., to visit their mother, were safe at home today after three days and nights in the woods.

William Brown and sister, Dorothy, equipped with four blankets, a mark of cookies and $2 from their bank, had camped out in the woods each night, they told their mother today.

They wanted to see their mother, and from their father, Charles L. Brown, a local farmer, they had been told.

"I wasn't afraid of the dark, as long as Harold was around," explained Dorothy, 9.

They had suffered little from exposure, but a couple of miles pretty tired and a little scared, Harold said. They had been sleeping under a tree.

At a force of 40 state police troops, a search for the two children was made, trapping down the hillside.

The Brighter Side

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright, 1937, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. International copyright and all other rights reserved.)

It appears that the suspicion is developing in some quarters that Jason is a sort of Harry Wills of the western.

Harry Wills was a big, heavy-set, heavy-weight division, pretty much a terror. He was called "The Iron Horse" and "The Iron Horse" was a popular imagination invested him with high super-human powers which could sweep him off his feet.

Donor Runyon warranted. However, the other heavyweights of the day, and their managers, were largely responsible for Wills' reputation by their attitude toward him.

They would run like blue blazes at the mere mention of his name. None of the leading contenders wanted to fight him. Wills was reduced for employment to the old underclass of the heavyweight division, and the way he behaved around increased the fearfulness of his reputation with the allures.

SHUSH-SHUSH!

He was quite a fellow for making the most business of his name. This, added to his huge stature, and his powerful sweeps as an opponent, gave him an awesome air.

It was almost as if he were a giant, and if you were once personally emboldened to remark that Harry looked terrific mainly because he was getting on real position, the arguing voice was instantly silenced by the indignation of his reputation.

U. S. Navy Plane Forced Down Off Scituate

Takes Off Again After Crew of 4 Fixes Clogged Oil Line

The giant U. S. Navy bombing plane 13-P-3, from Norfolk, Va. naval base, carrying a crew of four, made a forced landing three miles off Scituate today when the gas line on one of the motors became clogged.

The plane, here for annual Army and Navy air maneuvers off the Massachusetts coast, was firing high, accompanied by another plane when the pilot suddenly pointed her nose to the sea.

Within a few minutes a Coast Guard plane from Salem in command of Lieut. Frank A. Leamy was headed to Scituate, and the patrol boats Thetis and CG 409 and the cutter Cayuga were sent. A motor surfboat from Alton was also dispatched to the scene.

The pilot of the plane, after making a perfect landing, taxied his ship toward shore. When the Scituate surfboat reached his side he assured its officers he was in no danger and would make repairs.

A half-hour later the plane went back into the air and rejoined the other planes in the maneuvers.

Treasury Income Tops Estimates

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent
Copyright, 1937

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (INS)—Confidential estimates of unprecedented government income of possibly $7,300,000,000 during the current fiscal year will be laid before President Roosevelt by Treasury and Congressional experts.

The sharp upward revision in estimates of receipts, based upon enormous tax collections in many classes, today gave the administration new hope of bringing the budget near balance.

The estimates admittedly are based upon continuation of brisk business, as forecast by Secretary of Commerce Roger, and would be dashed by a recession.

After a study of the situation, an authoritative source revealed today, the administration expects to place the receipts for the year ending June 30, 1938, at from $7,000,000,000 to $7,300,000,000, with the latter figure to be reached if business holds up.

BILLION SHORT

The budget on paper still would be $1,000,000,000 out of balance at the end of the fiscal year but a vigorous economy drive is counted upon to reduce the deficit.

Mr. Roosevelt is expected in the revised budget he plans to make public in the near future, to revise the original estimates of tax collections and other receipts.

In his original budget estimate for the year, Mr. Roosevelt placed receipts at $7,200,000,000. Appropriations of Congress for the year, estimated at $6,200,000,000, would leave a surplus of $1,000,000,000.

Back Bay Nurse Suicide, Final Plea Denied

Sought "Oblivion" But Police Notify Relatives

Ruth Itabin's last earthly request—for oblivion after death—was denied today as police began investigation of circumstances surrounding the discovery of the body of the 26-year-old Faulkner Hospital nurse in her back Bay apartment.

Clad only in a nightgown, she was found stretched on the bare floor of the modest flat she shared with another nurse, Mariel Conina, 24, of Park street.

A pillow lay half under her head and beside her was an empty bottle which had contained sleeping pills and a note in her hand reading:

"Dear Mariel: There is no one to tell you. I am taking my belongings and going to Margaret Mink. I don't want a funeral. Love, Ruth."

Searching through hospital records, investigators found that she left both a brother and a sister in the wake of a 50-degree drop in temperature since Wednesday.

Re-Enact Robbery Roles

Miss Grace Aiken and Ralph Clampa, Somerville Roofing and Skylight Company employees, show how they were forced into a back room, with their hands up, when two gunmen staged a holdup in the firm's business office today, enacting a play.

Detective's Evidence Win Waban Wife A Divorce

Peeking on Beacon Hill revealed Robert E. Wells, Waban salesman, and his wife, Dorothy McCormick, Boston stenographer, in very spicy attire, a private detective testified today in aiding Wells' wife to win a divorce in Middlesex probate court.

A decree was granted by Judge Arthur E. Jones to Mrs. Dorothy McCormick Wells of Pilgrim road, Waban, on charges of unfaithfulness and failure to provide for her and their four children.

To his peering Detective Theodore W. House of Everett street, he hired a room across from the apartment of Betty McCormick in Bevers street, Beacon Hill, and watched for a number of nights.

This was after he had followed the couple from a safe near Winthrop avenue, he testified, and had watched them stop in Albers and dark places in tug and kist on the walk to her Beacon Hill apartment.

After a number of nights of watching, Wells did not come down from his room, McCormick testified, although the lights had long gone out.

Mrs. Wells testified they were married June 10, 1925, and were happy for two or three years.

Things began to change, she said, and started drinking and staying out all night, progressing until frequently his absence would be for two to three days, without any telephone calls.

Asked if she had met Betty McCormick, the wife testified Wells had asked her to invite Betty to the Wells home for a weekend, and Mrs. Wells did so.

Japan Near Top In Hub Export

Japan's demand for army metal, presumably for ammunition, has placed that country second in the amount of exports shipped from Boston.

This was revealed today by Edmund F. Bemis of the Federal Bureau of Foreign Commerce following issuance of the report compiled by the U. S. Customs Service concerning port activities.

Only the countries of the United Kingdom surpassed Japan, the report stated.

According to the records for the first six months this year, a total of $16,000,000 in goods moved in and out of the port—showing gains over a similar period last year.

The imports were valued at $135,000,000, while exports were $15,246,501. The gain in imports over 1936 was $7,392,307 and exports $9,663,320.

Dahl Telegraphs 2 Milton Women Franco Thanks

RAMALANCA, Spain, Oct. 8 (INS)—Condemned to death and then reprieved, Lieutenant Harold E. Dahl, Champlain, Ill., aviator held captive by Spanish insurgents, today telegraphed his gratitude to rebel Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

Dahl's position now awaits the pleasure of Franco. The American flyer is still held in prison, and it is believed an exchange may be arranged for him and the Russian aviator who were freed with him.

All were going to "take up arms against the Spanish people," Dahl was saying, his request when news of the verdict was brought to him. Peace and nervous he sprang to attention as his guards entered.

Dahl's counsel, Marguerite Del Monte, slipped his arm through Dahl's and smilingly read the verdict and Franco's reprieve. Greeting his hands together until the knuckles showed white, Dahl stood silent for a full minute, and then, with a heavy sigh, exclaimed "Gods!"

His lips trembling, he embraced Marie and shook hands all round.

"I want to thank all you gentlemen," he said, "and particularly General Franco."

Wife in France Seeks Interest by U. S.

CANNES, France, Oct. 8 (INS)—Believed that her flying husband had executed a Spanish insurgent firing squad, Mrs. Harold E. Dahl today announced she will seek American diplomatic intervention to gain his speedy release from jail.

Mrs. Dahl, who said some of her pretty brown hair had turned gray in the last few days, learned that Generalissimo Francisco Franco had reprieved Lieutenant Dahl, under sentence of death, only through reporters.

Under the proposed action, setting back the age limit, pensions for teachers will be provided on an equitable basis, depending on the number of years service in the schools, Committeeman Maurice Tobin pointed out.

Woman's Arrest For Tax Probed

An investigation of the arrest of Mrs. Marie B. Brown of Braintree town officials for non-payment of income tax was started today by Assistant Attorney General Maurice H. Goldstein.

Mrs. Brown appeared at the attorney general's office to tell the story of her arrest, which has been reported in newspapers.

The 35-year-old mother told Goldstein that she was not given an opportunity to see a bond so as to avoid a stay in jail. She also mentioned that William J. Goldstein, brother of Assistant Attorney General Maurice H. Goldstein, failed to attach any actual value in his possession as guaranty that the tax would be paid.

Goldstein, after the conference, announced he would call Constable George J. Gorman to tell his story.

"It seems to me that the substance of the inquiry," Goldstein said, "if Mrs. Brown was taken into custody liberally as can bring a civil suit against the officials."

Mother Injured But Saves Babies

Pushes Pair Aside As 400-Lb. Stone Crushes Her

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (INS)—Mrs. Ruth Powell, 35-year-old mother, had only a split second to choose between saving her own life or the lives of her two babies, Ellen and Barbara.

She made a mother's choice, and today she lay on a hospital operating table, her right leg amputated at the knee and her skull fractured from the blow of a 400-pound piece of stone that fell upon her from an apartment building.

SAVES THE BABIES
Mrs. Powell had placed little Barbara, seven months old, in her baby carriage, and, with Ellen, five and one-half, by her side, set forth from her home, pushing the carriage, on her way to do some shopping.

At the first street corner, some building made her glance upward. A great jagged rock was tumbling through the air.

In that thousandth part of a second, Mrs. Powell made her choice. With her left hand she shoved Ellen out into the gutter where the child sprawled in safety. With her right hand, she gave the carriage a push. It stopped as it struck a store front, but Barbara, within the carriage, was unhurt.

ASKED FOR BARBARA
Four hundred pounds of stone struck Mrs. Powell to the sidewalk before she could move. Her right leg was crushed, but she was conscious. She could not move, the stone being upon her, but as people rushed to her side, she said: "Are the babies all right? How is the baby and Ellen? Are they all right?"

Then she fainted and was rushed to the hospital.

6-Time Bride Says Girls Should Wed

'Single Blessedness' Not Ideal, Finds Mrs. La Parle

This is the second installment of the life and loves of Mrs. Violet Gamble La Parle, whose marriages were brought to light in Sheffield Superior court, as edited by Betty Di Pen, Boston Evening American staff writer.

By MRS. VIOLET G. LA PARLE

I am not man-crazy. Men have never been the beginning and ending of things for me. They didn't interest me too much. Nor has sex ever meant much in my life.

The reason for my six marriages is that at heart I am domestic. I love to cook and whenever I get a chance back in the good days, I would concoct a dish. When I entertained I would prepare my own midnight supper, and that was when I was happiest.

MARRIAGE "ONLY THING"

I think marriage is the only thing for a girl. Because it brings things like a home and all the domesticity that a home means. I was happy during my marriages because even though I have never felt real love, I have been fond of all my husbands, and have loved the things that marriage meant. A chance to make a home, cook, entertain your friends.

I am not one to recommend "single blessedness" as it is termed. But then I am getting away from the main trend of my story.

I have told about my first two husbands, 18-year-old Alvin Field and 20-year-old Henry Seal.

INTRODUCED TO SEAL

Seal introduced me to my third husband, Henry Roberts, who came to his factory one day with an invention.

We entertained Roberts at our home. He came often. I grew very fond of him and he had grown to love me. I went to Seal and asked him for a divorce.

Seal had known that I had never loved him. I had never deceived him about that. But he had told me that it was all right and that if I ever met anybody, and wanted a divorce, he would step out of the picture.

But when I told him that I wanted a divorce from him to marry Roberts he forgot about our agreement. Roberts was 17 years older than I and Seal told me that if he (Seal) were too old for me, you remember he was 27 years older) Roberts was also too old for me.

1000 A MONTH
He contested my suit for divorce. For 13 months the court battle went on. In the meantime I was granted $1000 monthly temporary alimony. Finally I got the divorce and was granted $500 a month permanent alimony. $5000 out of the factory holdings, and a $50,000 life insurance bequest, if I did not marry again.

But I did. Money was never too important to me. Roberts and I were married in October, 1924. He had received $28,000 for his invention and I had $28,000 in the bank and of course, my jewelry.

We furnished a beautiful apartment and I seemed to be on the crest of the wave, starting life anew. Roberts didn't want me to be sorry for giving up anything, and I had given up very much to marry him.

He tried to provide me with everything Seal had surrounded me with. Cars, horses, a large farm.

BUSINESS REGABOO
But this time I had to bow to the old business routine. Roberts worked day and night. He neglected me. I would ride at the horse show and he wouldn't have time to come and see me.

Roberts went to the athletic club and we were divorced. It was June, 1925. I received $20,000 from Henry Roberts.

But it was not the last I was to hear of him. I met S. Russ Hollander, grandson of L. P. Hollander, store merchant. He was 22 years old. I was 27. He took me to Boston and introduced me to his family. But Mr. Roberts, my divorced husband, followed me east. He said:

"Don't marry Russ, Vi, he's just a playboy. He'll never make you happy. Come back to Chicago. And come back to me."

BACK TO CHICAGO
I decided to go back to Roberts. Russ threatened to join the Foreign Legion. He carried on and cried. But I felt, perhaps Roberts was right and perhaps Russ was a playboy.

I went to Chicago by train. And Roberts followed, driving my roadster. Without my knowledge, however, Russ Hollander was also making the trip. He parked his four-door car with the Massachusetts plates opposite my hotel. He took a room in a nearby hotel and stood guard.

It was that car with the Massachusetts plates that made Roberts see red when he arrived in Chicago a few days later with my car.

HANDSOME NOTE
We had an appointment, Roberts and I, for dinner. I was eight minutes late. But Roberts was nowhere in sight, instead the doorman handed me a note. It was from Roberts. It read:

"My dear: No doubt you had a 'severe' quarrel. Try again, sometime."

(In tomorrow's third and last installment, Mrs. La Parle tells of her last three marriages.)

False Teeth Bring Death Fatal Factor in Crash Of New Auto

SALEM, Oct. 8.—A strange combination of false teeth and the hoodoo number 13 figured in the death of one man and critical injuries to two others in an auto crash here early today.

William Gillis, 65, of Stacey court, Marblehead, was pronounced dead at Salem hospital after a car that had been driven only 13 miles crashed into a pole. Doctors said he might have lived had not his false teeth become dislodged by the crash, strangling him.

William Melton of Beverly and George Broughton of Beacon street, Marblehead, passengers with Gillis, were the two injured. Police said the car failed to straighten out on a wide curve on Lafayette highway. It plunged over a sidewalk and crashed into a stone wall.

The names of Melton and Broughton were placed on the danger list at Salem Hospital.

$757,755 Fund to Fix Schools

A sweeping modernization and improvement program for 203 of Boston's 324 public school buildings appeared certain today in a new allotment of $1,382,000 in PWA funds for state projects.

The schools' allotment makes $757,755 available for improvements such as resurfacing school yards, mending school roofs and gutters. An additional appropriation of $630,251 has been granted for repairs to public buildings of the city.

Federal funds for three construction projects at local schools will be sought under PWA projects. The School Committee has indicated they are for building additions to the William Howard Taft school in Brighton, the High School of Practical Arts in Roxbury, and the Roslindale High School.

The $460,854 bid of the J. L. Huxter Building Company, Inc., of Boston, has won the PWA project for building the Gloucester Plaza Pier, State PWA Administrator Andrew Peterson announced.

Other cities to benefit under the PWA allotments announced today are Brockton, $23,444; Dartmouth, $4,681; Swansea, $11,529; Groton, $2,999; and Dalton, $1,117.

U. S. Neutrality Law Scored by New College Leader

WILLIAMSTOWN, Oct. 8 (AP)—Dr. James H. Baxter, 32, asserted today at his inauguration as Williams College's tenth president that the United States' new neutrality law "in the opinion of many careful students, is more likely to involve us in war than our old system."

Dr. Baxter said: "We are witnessing the collapse of the world's system of collective security, with peace determined by economic nationalism and threatened by the swelling ambition of Fascist leaders both in Europe and the Orient."

"Our own country, after ten years of reading of the lessons of the years 1914 to 1917, has placed on the statute book a new system of neutrality which in the opinion of many careful students, is more likely to involve us in war than our old system."

"While Congress floundered with the economic aspects of neutrality, not mastering them, too little attention has been paid to the risks of emotional involvement in war."

STRIPPED INSECURITY
"We have heard much about British propaganda in the United States, but no adequate study has yet been made of the subtle and insidious efforts of Americans to conduct 'propaganda' themselves. If the new war brings democratic nations to grips with fascist states, the risks of emotional involvement will be still greater than they were 20 years ago."

"Must the United States be drawn into another world war before her people learn the lesson that the world is a single globe in which the fate of one nation is the fate of all?"

"The world is a single globe in which the fate of one nation is the fate of all. We must learn to live together in peace and harmony, or we shall be driven to war by the forces of emotional involvement."

3 New Judges Confirmed By Council

Good, Tomasello and Dolan Win Official O. K.

Three judicial appointments of Governor Hurley were confirmed today by the executive council.

They were Judge Arthur W. Dolan of Buffalo, probate court, as associate justice of the supreme court; Judge Francis J. Good of municipal court as superior court justice; and Assistant U. S. Attorney Frank W. Tomasello as judge of the municipal court, succeeding Judge Michael J. Murray, resigned.

Immediately after the action, the council adjourned for the swearing in of Judge Dolan by Governor Hurley who, for the first time, confirmed the report that John W. Mahoney, his associate, secretary would succeed Judge Dolan.

BIRTH FOR MAHONEY
At the governor's office, Judge Dolan and his mother began to pour in a group picture for the new judge, Governor Hurley, his associate, who was nearby, and his mother.

"I think we ought to have Judge Dolan's successor in this picture," the governor said.

The governor was to officially submit the name of Mahoney when the council reconvened.

Although the nomination is held over for one week, according to statute, Lieutenant Governor Francis E. Kelly is expected to put up an unsuccessful fight to block the confirmation. A bill for the confirmation of Judge Dolan was passed by the council.

Provisionally mentioned for the position of associate justice of the supreme court are William B. Dolan, John W. Mahoney, and Arthur W. Dolan.

Attending the swearing in ceremony of Judge Dolan were his wife, 34-year-old mother, Mrs. Dolan, a sister, Mrs. Frank Mahoney, and a brother, William B. Dolan, and a brother, Arthur W. Dolan.

The Italian was escorted from the court by Judge Joseph A. Mahoney, Jr., who was the brother of the Italian.

Paul Ryan, former State House speaker and secretary of the governor, will also be in the picture. He is the brother of the Italian.

'No,' Says Court, To Leg Display

BALCON, Oct. 8.—With a very quick negative, Judge Edward J. O'Brien in probate court today declined to view a picture of a man, leg and thigh of a pretty girl in a legal separation suit.

Low then was after leaving her husband, George H. Small, 34-year-old, who is now in the custody of the court.

The charge that her husband beat and abused her through their five years of marriage life, and that because they were afraid of him, she fled to live in the Channel Islands, France, and the Holy Land, the largest beach resort in the world, was the charge.

Boston Hotels Unstirred by Dog Problem

New York in Quandary
Whether City Is
Place for 'Pooch'

Although New York city is pretty well stirred up over the dog situation there, what with barking of poodles from some hotels and talk of barring them from the city itself, Boston has no such dog problem.

This was revealed in a check of hotels situated and apartment in Greater Boston.

In New York one of the largest apartment houses groups, the U. S. City group, has decided to bar all dogs from its hotels. A long controversy over whether the excluded city is a fair place for the dogs.

Hotels there are passing a varied course, some demanding no dogs and others admitting them freely, although many with their own conditions.

But in Boston, no hotel could be located where dogs are barred entirely.

At the Copple Place it was a quick response to a letter asking for a dog to be kept in the hotel. The dog was kept in the hotel.

The Ritz Carlton, however, and they had no restrictions but that dogs were a nuisance.

The name appears at the hotel but in various other hotels a different group of dogs was admitted. Only small dogs are admitted because many are afraid to enter rooms where the dogs are not wanted.

At the Adams Hotel, however, a dog was kept in the hotel. The dog was kept in the hotel.

THE FIRST TWO PROBLEMS CORRECTLY ANSWERED

Human Problem No. 1.—Answer "B" is correct. Hester, the character in Hawthorne's story the "Scarlet Letter," carried the secret to her grave. The story said, "But she refused to disclose the name of the child's father." The picture showing the funeral of her lover still shows Hester wearing the Scarlet Letter.

Human Problem No. 2.—Conclusion "B" is correct. The Wife aided her brother in his fight for life. The vindictive sister would not visit her brother and his accomplice in jail. She is shown testifying at court showing that she did testify on behalf of her brother. This case was taken from a now famous case in New York.

These first two problems were selected to show the type of problems to come. They were made as difficult as possible so as to bring the correct answers to sort the contestants and we would be showing the real tough ones and the contents of the answer book will be ensured.

You will find easy clues in Problem 5 on this page and you will find it just as easy to answer Problem 6 tomorrow. This first SET-OF-SIX when completed Saturday, will start you on your way to winning $15,000.00 in cash. Feel free to write in and ask questions. We know how a new contest creates a lot of misadventure and confusion. So we will be glad to answer your questions. THIS ONE AND ENJOY IT. We will gladly answer any question that does not jeopardize the standing of others in the Contest.

Look for the Clues for the Correct Conclusion

A statement in the story that is definite and points to one conclusion must receive serious consideration. An illustration showing a conclusion likewise must receive a great deal of attention. You do not HAVE to search for the ORIGINAL story. The original story is used as a guarantee that there is ONE conclusion. It is your protection on this Contest. There are no tricks or catches. Hester in Problem I said in the story as we published it, "But she refused to disclose the name of the child's father." That is a definite statement and it stands. We will not, at any time, use contradictory statements regardless of the action of the story. The conclusions are easy to find.

SET NO. 1—HUMAN PROBLEM NO. 1

t was a badge of shame—
known far beyond the wire, conspicuous to the latter "A"—deliberately traced in black ink, a proclamation to all in that remote village that Hester had a child.
Hester's father was ashamed.

When her shame first became known, the stern village fathers censured the hapless
Hester to the churchyard, sternly disapproving even of the villagers. On a raised scaffold she was forced to sit so that all the village might see and point a finger of shame.

At times that punishment wasn't sufficient, and she was forced to wear a coat, even though the cruelty of it hurt her soul. Hester was known as "the Scarlet Letter."

But she refused to disclose the name of her child.

"I'll never wonder alone," she told herself. "I'll never wonder alone." "I'll never wonder alone," she told herself.
"I'll never wonder alone," she told herself. "I'll never wonder alone," she told herself. "I'll never wonder alone," she told herself. "I'll never wonder alone," she told herself. "I'll never wonder alone," she told herself. "I'll never wonder alone," she told herself.

But Hester was about the indignant. Barring a proposal that she could help undo the cheastful letter "A" if she revealed the name of her seducer, she gained a modest husband for herself and child by subduing.

A WIFE'S DECISION

He was an efficient bookkeeper — "efficient" that out of the firm's money he had been stealing as much as $100 a day to play the horses.

But his employers, one of whom was his brother-in-law, were not suspicious. Neither could read nor write.

The inevitable crash came.

Self-Made Girl

By Hazel Livingstone

Linda never knew how close she came to losing her job.

Mr. Bottinger was frantic. What ALLED the girl? He spoke to her sarcastically more than once, and was doubly irritated to see that it was lost on her. She didn't know he said anything at all.

She'd been so amiable, so sane! Such a model of a secretary. Well, if he was going to act like this, he'd have to get rid of her.

But by the time he had hardened his heart enough to speak of it, she was here! Quiet, efficient.

For Linda it was over too soon. Three perfect days. But in the end nothing to warm her heart except the promise that he'd be back in town at the close of the college year.

"Well, it was a lot of fun, Linda. We'll be doing it again soon."

Fervently she threw herself into her work. Mr. Bottinger beamed.

SHE DIDN'T CARE

He saw to it that she got a $10 raise, which was to be a secret, but somehow the news got out, and some of the girls were very pleased about it. Linda didn't care. It was only a means to an end, that job of hers, and if it meant a bit of unpleasantness she could take it. It would be June very soon. She must be ready—ready for anything.

She never missed a French class, read all the papers, even the politics that she hated. Went to every literary event possible, even went over to Tanager, to talk to King and Paul and Gladys and Nola, and find out what was going on.

When Glenn came back ahead had some things to talk about, or know the reason why.

It was gratifying. King and Paul were thrilled to see her, and impressed with her new clothes.

Gladys was a little after at first. "Well, what brings you back?" You look prosperous.

"I'm not crazy."

"Just to see you."

"We've been sitting around for a long, long while, waiting to see you."

"I know. I've been a pig. Gladys, I could have come, but I was afraid that if I got back with my plans for myself, you never had much sympathy with my ideas, you know."

"And you never cared much what I thought?"

"I did, though. That was the trouble. I've been afraid of you all that I could have cried lots of times—and more than once."

"Then why didn't you come back?"

"I've told you. Because I was afraid."

Gladys shook her head. "You're a funny bird, Linda. And God only knows why you're allowed to be the world's most successful business woman. What does she get for you? Now look at me. I need to be a secretary—and a darn

Married Comrades

DICKY SURPRISED BY CHANGE

CHAPTER 428

"I NEVER HEARD such nonsense in my life," Dicky exploded as I told him the argument I had used with Samuel Brixton—that his family would rather starve than use insurance money coming because the husband and father had taken himself out of the world.

"Do you mean that?"

"Hush!" I said imperatively, my eyes fixed upon the drug store door. "Whatever you may think of the argument, it's correct, or because of the definition of a hope which that caution had unwittingly caused, a hope was about as dead as I had been, when we first had seen him in the garage. But Dicky was crestfallen."

"I mean exactly that," I said. "I don't know what he meant to do—has pretty well bewildered and despairing. I fancy, but at least he's going to try to hold on a few days longer, he says. He went in to telephone Miss March."

Dicky eyed me intently, and I saw admiration mingled with bewilderment in his eyes. Then he bowed from the waist, clucking his heels in the most approved fashion.

MADGE IS LAID

"I certainly have to slip it to you, old girl," he said. "I don't know how you managed it, but you've evidently got it. But, poor devil, have you considered that if he goes on too long, it's simply this—his insurance policies will lapse, and then what will they all be?"

"Where thousands of other families just as worthy have found themselves, down to bed rock. Many have found their way up again. It's a matter of time, and one of them in a grave."

I spoke hotly, and Dicky gave me a queer glance.

"I believe you mean that," he said with a queer intonation in his voice. "Which proves my frequent contention, that when it comes to women are the queerest creatures on the face of the earth."

"Except man!" I supplemented. "But I just want you to remember one thing, that I mean for myself, every word I said for Helen, so never, never get ideas in your head."

BRIXTON RETURNS

"I'm not apt to be that," he said. "I just want you to remember one thing, that I mean for myself, every word I said for Helen, so never, never get ideas in your head."

Health of Baby Depends on Nursing

Artificial Feeding Should Be Used As Last Resort

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.

A well-known baby specialist recently and wisely said: "The mother who nurses her infant saves herself money, work and the baby's health."

There is no denying that the breast-fed infant is almost sure to have fewer health problems than the infant artificially fed.

Of course breast feeding is often impossible, and in spite of its many advantages, artificial feeding must be used. But when the breast can be used in other methods and be successful.

An occasional youngster born in these modern times gives breast feeding as the best method of feeding. It is also the best method of feeding. It is also the best method of feeding.

INSTRUCTION NEEDED

Young mothers should be instructed in proper nursing technique and in the proper use of the breast. It is also the best method of feeding. It is also the best method of feeding.

Bridge Don't Spurn Over-Trick

By JOSEPHINE COLEMAN

In a match-point game, great differences in the score depend on what the rubber Bridge player would think trivial.

In tournament Bridge, however, an over-trick is either very important, or merely a matter of "art for art's sake."

Education Can Go On

LUCKY Anne and Paul! They're off to college, to valuable social contacts, good jobs.

Do you feel, because you can't afford college, that the door to these advantages is closed in your face?

Go to college in your own home. Plan a program of study, to some reading every day. Doors don't close now will open wide.

For the first part of your program spruce up your general information. Do you know the names of the great men who have shaped the world? Do you know the names of the great men who have shaped the world?

Edith Lewis' Brookline Wedding Holds Social Spotlight

By BETTY ALDEN

SINCE JOHN BRADFORD MILLET placed that sparkle on her finger two weeks ago, Betty Watson has been collecting quite an array of bridesmaids frocks...

At least, two in one week seems somewhat of a record... Last Sunday Betty was a bridesmaid at Madeline Jackson Emery's wedding in Dedham...

Today's bride, who is the daughter of Mrs. Geoffrey Lewis, and the late Mr. Lewis, has selected the First Parish Church in Brookline as the scene of her marriage... the Rev. Abbott Peterson and Rev. Endicott Peabody, headmaster of the Groton school, are officiating...

Geoffrey Lewis is giving his sister in marriage...

The bride is wearing a gown of ivory satin with a tulle veil and a bouquet of bouvardia, gardenia and maiden hair fern...

Preceding her down the aisle is a bevy of attractive girls, all dressed in white and some with bouquets of mixed chrysanthemums... Mrs. Geoffrey Lewis, Jr. (Elizabeth Leach), mother-in-law of the bride, and Anne H. Richards, sister of the bridegroom, the honor attendants...

Edith Lewis, sister of the bridegroom, the honor attendants, while the six bridesmaids have white velvet hats and wine color chrysanthemums are predominate in their bouquets...

They are the Misses Leslie Eustis, Betty Watson, Polly Olney, Mary C. Tyler, Margaret Torbert and Mary Laverack, all girls who carried their debut the same year as Edith...

Small Reception for Friends BENJAMIN C. RIGGS is attending to the duties of best man.

There is to be a small reception for families and a few intimate friends at The Country Club... Though Edith and Ham are trying to keep their honeymoon plans a secret, their friends think they are Bermuda-bound...

Mrs. Lewis's estimate for the wedding is of wine color crepe with a matching velvet hat and an orchid corsage... Mrs. Henry Richards, mother of the bridegroom, is wearing black velvet trimmed with lace, a black velvet hat and a corsage of roses and gardenia...

Edith is a graduate of the Winsor School and is a member of the executive committee of the Vincent Club... Two years ago when she made her debut, she was chairman of the provisional members of the Junior League...

Mrs. Richards is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Richards of Joy Lane, Groton... He graduated from Harvard last June and belongs to Hasty Pudding, Institute of 1970 and D. U. Clubs...

There have been a number of pleasant entertainments for the bride couple during the past few days... including a cocktail party by the bride's mother, a luncheon given by Mr. and Mrs. Richards, parents of the bridegroom, and a luncheon at which Leslie Eustis was hostess...

Jeanne Fisher Weds Tonight REVEREND HERBERT HITCHEN will perform the marriage ceremony this evening at the Unitarian Church of West Newton, at which Jeanne Fisher, daughter of Mrs. Irving Fisher, and the late Dr. Fisher, will become the bride of Joseph Churchill Skinner, son of Mrs. John Meehan of Wellesley Hills, and the late Dr. Roy Skinner...

The bride will wear a wedding gown of ivory satin made on princess lines, with a tulle veil falling from a Duchesse lace cap, and she will carry a bouquet of brides' roses and bouvardia...

The bride attendants are all wearing gowns of ivory tulle, made similar to the bride's gown, and brightened with arm bouquets of copper chrysanthemums and Marmion dahlias... they are also wearing little clusters of the same colorful flowers in their hair...

Eather Watson, of Buffalo, N. Y., is attending Mrs. Fisher as maid of honor, and the bridesmaids are the Misses Barbara Glidden of West Newton, Hannah Coffin of Brookline, Jane Burgess of Wellesley Hills, Mrs. Frederic P. Kimball, the former Jean Barbach, of Dedham, and Mrs. Louville F. Niles (Mary Loder) of Kingston...

The wedding reception will be held at the Bree Brune Country Club... where Mrs. Fisher will receive with the bride couple, wearing a gown of black crepe trimmed with silver sequins, and Mrs. Meehan will be gowned in black velvet...

The bride graduated from Beaver Country Day School in 1932 and from Bennett Junior College two years later... She made her debut at a tea in the autumn of 1932... The bridegroom attended Bowdoin College and graduated from Pembroke College, Cambridge, England, in 1936... He is a member of the Cambridge (England) Union, the Maugus Club and the Wellesley Country Club, and is engaged in the newspaper business in Boston...

Mrs. Ames With New Escort DURING the last couple of weeks there have been a number of newspaper stories from Hollywood announcing that Maurice Ames, widow of the late Freddie Ames, is engaged to Stanley Smith, a movie actor... but as soon as Mrs. Ames returned from Hollywood on Monday she denied that the rumors were true... and last evening she belied them by attending the opening night party at the Hotel Somerset Ballroom—Not with Mr. Smith, but with Mr. New... and this is not a pun, for her escort was Lester New of New York and California, who has recently come to Boston to spend the winter... Mrs. Ames was a beautiful gown of black tulle with a full skirt tucked in a diagonal pattern, and showed the recent Hollywood influence in her shorter hair cut with loose waves about her face in place of the recited curls which framed her face at the time of her recital last winter...

Among the many different people who welcomed her back home were Nat Saltonstall, who was at a nearby table with "Bug" Holden and Prof. and Mrs. Robert Hillier... conversation at the Saltonstall table was chiefly about building and architecture, because Nat is full of plans for the new home he is building in Medford... and evidently he is very enthusiastic about becoming a country squire... As her partners whirled her around to the tingling rhythms of the Marshfield music everyone could get a good look at Mrs. Hillier's becoming new hair-do...

'Your Figure, Sir!'

ACROBATS TELL MEN HOW TO RELAX

By IDA JEAN KAIN

WHETHER you are an acrobat or a business man, one important trick is to learn when and how to relax.

Every trained athlete knows the necessity of relaxing completely when he takes a dangerous fall—his only chance to avert serious injury.

But what about the business man? Learning to relax is, in the long run, just as important...

Free Menus Await All Who Write for Them

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Do you want to know how to prepare a Sunday night supper costing not more than 18 cents per person?

Do you want to entertain your boy friend and his chum, and really show them you can cook?

You do? Then write for the attractive menus I have arranged for you. I'm sure you will like them.

For years after all these years, I've said that a sure way to win the love of a boy was to prove that you could be a practical wife. And now I'm ready to help all you young girls who are about to get married...

Just send me a three-cent stamped envelope with your name and address clearly written and I will mail you the menu for just the kind of supper you want...

It's much better for you and all young people to see what I've cooked the parties, than to go on speaking of it as a thing to be done. I want to show you the menu for a party of two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, eleven, twelve, thirteen, fourteen, fifteen, sixteen, seventeen, eighteen, nineteen, twenty, Cautionary Trade Note Is Sounded

Reserve Governors See Several Hurdles in Business Path

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

While the monthly bulletin published by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve system pictures profits of large industries as up 30 per cent in the first nine months of the year as compared with the same period, there is a cautionary note sounded that can not be overlooked.

Several business hurdles are pointed out, the most important of which is the slackening of the rate of profit increase in the second and third quarters. Then there is the September decline in industrial production. The significant feature of the month ordinarily shows an increase over August. The dependence of the steel industry on the backlog in the absence of new orders is also called to attention. Finally the decline in shoe retail sales as a barrier to increased business volume. On the financial side the slowing up of new capital issues receives mention.

The sudden introduction of a radically altered administration foreign policy may excite the markets at the session of Congress. Dismissals from Washington indicate that President Roosevelt will fight on abandonment of the country's previous attitude of neutrality stance. It is thought that in preference to running the risk of such attacks administrative advisers will correct dropping the special session of Congress, which is muchly confusing in view of repeated amendments for the purpose of legislation and a war-time law in the nature of emergency measures, as though they were created in and then deemed politically expedient.

It is certain that the equity markets are troubled as to just how the newly delineated foreign policy is to be taken. Judged on its adoption Thursday alone confusion was the result. The market had a falling mood of strength on the assumption a large scale armistice would be set at some non-hostile basis. It is possible that the market will take the position that the new policy is a step toward the protection, but it is not a jump to heavy conclusion.

Stock prices in general continued to show signs of uncertainty, however, and investment activity is discouraged. A result, it will take more quiet trading to bring the market to a substantial buying needed to move the tide of recovery. It is far in the stock market that those who are concerned with buying simply because prices are low are running a risk.

It is suggested that traders prefer the more reasonable course of negotiating the necessary legislation. It is not clear whether the market has attempted to anticipate the results of the interday performance of prices the important thing for potential buyers to keep in mind is that the previous pattern of the downward has been seen. And every series that comes without the rise alone and confirming the new low for the industry makes it look more and more as though a turning point of importance is being witnessed. When new developments are so uncertain and frustrating the technical analysis of the market is by far the most accurate guide to the future.

AUSTEN LAKE

New York Begins To Show Series Surfeit

NEW YORK, OCT. 8.—FOR THE SAKE of saving a public illusion, it might be well if the Giants and Yankees concede the rest of the World Series game and put away their tools until next spring.

It begins to look as though the New York citizens do not relish seeing one set of their public idols belting the daylight out of another set of their public pets.

This tends to destroy the illusion that the Giants and Yankees, in their respective leagues, are upholding civic glory and breeding the notion that they are just competitive firms out to grab the bigger hunk of local business prestige.

The Ruppert fans, even going with the Stomach team for the second consecutive season for the biggest titular bauble of baseball, and doing a pretty good job of it, demonstrated that the quality of the Ruppert brand of goods is vastly superior to the Stomach brand of merchandise. The customers are not to be deceived by the fact that the Stomach brand is a cheap imitation of the Ruppert brand.

In fact Thursday's demonstration of the Yankee Stadium witnessed the unusual World Series night of several thousand patrons leaving the field before the contest was two thirds finished.

They had seen enough, and even Babe Ruth gathered up his ulster, reeler and mittens and stalked off through the windy ramps with that in his manner to imply that this was no contest between equals, and he did not wish to witness a lesson being given to inept pupils.

Fans Stay Away in Droves

ALSO THERE WERE LARGE bald spots in the seats of the grand stands where the number of spectators failed to reach 100. These bald spots were in the boxes, and in the grand stands where the seats were not filled.

The owners did not want to put their $100 worth of seats to rest. And they are the first to admit that the game is not a success. The game is not a success, and the owners are the first to admit that the game is not a success.

Last year at the same time the Yankees were in the lead, and the press of the Yankees was in the lead. But this year there is no more in the Yankees than in the press.

Pity the Poor Journalist

WHAT THIS SERIES LACKS is the rousing rivalry which exists between two ambitious and self-conscious cities with a belligerent, home town feeling where the experts are not just journalists but apologists, free lance managers and rooters for the civic variety.

The expert in such cities picks his team to win and when they do not win, as has happened two days running in New York, he must explain that they did not get the breaks, observe that tomorrow is another day, insist that he is not weakening and wind up with a pep talk to the citizens and the team.

In present circumstances this is pretty awkward for the New York experts to do, because to praise one team is to disparage its neighbor, and to exert itself in a fine imperial stance, and the circulation of his paper be impaired.

In 1935, when De rut captured the championship from Chicago, the citizens mobbed the downtown streets until 3 in the morning and left their automobiles dead wherever they died in excessive display of the home town spirit.

The inmates of the city of Detroit are the baseball type of people, being, on the average, well employed and of small town American mind and interest. So that was a World Series very rich in the little incidents of the kind which baseball crowds like to recall many years afterward while waiting for the clink of the ice in the pitcher as the boy comes down the hallway.

Where Are Those Arkansas Hill-Billies?

IT TAKES A PEOPLE who can mix a little hate and intolerance with their loyalties and feel bad all over if their idols lose and exalted if they win. But it requires more imagination than the New Yorkers have to be desolated about the Giants when they can be consoled by the Yankees.

The New Yorkers will not burn any egg crates or tear down front porches for the grand victory bonfire celebration, as the people of Washington did on the occasion of the first World Series triumph in 1924. Nor will they march along the downtown streets blowing paper snakes, showering confetti from down town telephone boxes and shouting "Ray, Ray, Ray" as the Cleveland burglars did on another occasion.

The New York Journal is doing their best to keep the breath of life in this classic with an intensive ballplay and hero worship. But there are no crowds assembled before barber shops, lunch rooms and boot black stores attending the series by ear.

There are no hotels overflowing with excursionists from the rural regions whooping far into the night and giving hotel keepers the horrors with midnight crockery smashes as the Arkansas hill men did in St. Louis when the Dean boys and Schooley Route were fighting it out. Nor are there any solemn mobs forming a horseshoe around the tavern where the visiting celebrities reside and standing till their feet bleed on the chance of a fleeting peek at some prominent hayshaker.

It takes that sort of spirit to make a World Series, and I mean that Judge K. M. Landis and the rival league presidents were worn out night until collapse left the Giants and Yankees with their pennants again next year and continue restraining trade.

Because that is apt to be a World Series to all other World Series.

Deceptive Harvard Attack Too Advanced for Brown; Oakes, Struck Keymen

Harlow Has Done
A-I Job With Crimson

By WALTER KILEY

Harvard and Brown have much in common as they meet in the Stadium tomorrow afternoon, two New England colleges, once lordly, and now striving with might and main to dig themselves out of depression pits.

It is unfortunate that at this point when things are looking up for both of them, that one of them must carry on only at the expense of the other.

From a Crimson standpoint tomorrow is the first stiff test of the year. A smart, well executed victory will greatly enhance its chances against a powerful Navy team a week later, then against Dartmouth, Army, Princeton, the Vikes and Yale.

It is a confident Harvard eleven which faces the Bruins this year, an expanded unit of eleven, with a well balanced team attack, and a knowledge of fundamentals which will pay dividends before the year is out.

NO MINNESOTA TALENT

While many see the Bruins as a greatly improved team, and ready to give Harvard a real go tomorrow, it is our observation, after watching the Crimson at home, that the team is still distant from where Brown can confidently expect victory at Cambridge.

Harlow has brought to Harvard the strategic and offensive tactics which wrought him success in previous coaching assignments at Penn State, Colgate and Western Maryland.

Lacking the big, heavy power players he has adapted his attack to suit his material, depending largely on two offensive formations, a single wingback to either right or left, behind an unbalanced line and a straight kick.

Most plays involve a spinning, bucking back depending on deception. In Paulback Vernon Strunk, who usually takes the ball from center, Harlow boasts what he likes to call a "magnificent flier."

Arthur Oakes is another expert "flier," at that even the experts are often at a loss to follow the progress of the ball.

Oakes too is a passer who already rates with Harry Wood, and the two Couglings and Baber become a pair of ends who can catch passes.

Timothy MacDonald, the "dark-horse" of recent football, Harding, Roberts, Foley and Barrett can take them, too.

Strunk will be the keyman in the Crimson offense tomorrow, but Frank Foley, former Boston Latin player, has come a long way since spring practice, and it will pay the Bruins to keep him constantly under watch.

Twenty-one years ago Brown beat Harvard for the first time, in a series which, with interesting exceptions, dates back to 1905. Fritz Pollard ran wild that day.

Brown's last victory was back in 1905 when the "Iron Men" were making history.

Slippery Rock Band of 27 Eagles Boast Here for Game With B. U. Stellar Ends

Slippery Rock's valiant little band of 27 arrived in town at the wee hours of the morning, anxious for their first chance at a large university.

The small Pennsylvania Teachers' College officially makes its New England bow tomorrow afternoon on the Fenway Park surface at 2 o'clock against Boston University.

Old Kerr Thompson, who has been coaching at Slippery Rock for 20 years, has long waited for a shot at a large school and has been drilling his squad since Labor Day with this in view.

Many of the boys making the trip have never been farther than 10 miles from home and more than half of them never sleep a night in a Boston hotel last evening.

The road beds didn't seem to bother them as they alighted at 7 o'clock this morning ready to see the action. Their first wish was to visit all the historic sights and a bus trip was arranged this morning.

Coach Pat Hanley, refusing to take any chances, will start his squad at a large school and has been drilling his squad since Labor Day with this in view.

Crimson Grid Leader Returns

Pitt, Duquesne All Prospects Tangle

Goldberg-Brumbaugh
Backfield Duel Spices
Intracuity Game

By HARRY KECK

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 8.—Pittsburgh, for years one of the real centers of collegiate football interest, again becomes the focal point on the national fight for gridiron honors with the defeat of the Minnesota Gophers by Nebraska, and the Pittsburgh little bear has been on the 12 already is headed for a sellout.

No tougher team in back has appeared on the Pitt schedule than Nebraska across the years, and apparently the change in coaches from Dana Bishop to Captain Cliff Jones will not help matters.

But Pitt has other serious problems on its hands before meeting the Huskers.

The first of these looms tomorrow when the Panthers fight to recapture their grip on the local collegiate championship that was snatched away last year when Duquesne University won 10-0 from the team that just yesterday was to crash Washington in the Rose Bowl.

FITTY LINE BETTER

The Dukes, with a host of flying backs in Boyd Brumbaugh, a potential All-American, Under McKee, Metak and Cassell, among others, are equipped for battle against Pitt's Marshall Goldberg, Harold Sheldy and the new sensation, Dick Cammiano.

The edge, if any, is conceded to Pitt, but mainly on the assumption that the Panthers' line will prove the determining factor.

The Dukes had the key man of the former team, Mike Haney, graduated last June.

A Goldberg vs. Brumbaugh comparison for All-American recognition will be a feature of this game, which is expected to draw a sellout plus capacity of Pitt's stadium.

Both Pitt and Duquesne must change their line in the third round series of the three big time games, where cameras are set within a radius of several miles around the line of play.

But for goodness' sake Pitt must start under its new coaching regime headed by Bill Kern, former assistant at Pitt.

The Techs ended on a 14-0 edge over the Vikes in the second quarter last Saturday and then combined with a pass in the second half and started N.Y. 14 on the way to a great comeback which finished it at 10-14.

TECH VS. PURDUE

Tech tomorrow plays Purdue away from home in its last home game of the season. It is another chance to avenge a surprise defeat by the Tartans last year. But this is nothing out of the ordinary for Tech, which attractively plays one of the game's leading mounds scheduled.

The remaining games on its schedule after Purdue, in order, are Notre Dame, Temple, Pitt, Duquesne, Michigan State and Holy Cross.

Keck Picks Pitt To Defeat Dukes

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 8.—Predicted on the outcome of week-end football games by Harry Keck, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Courier-Telegraph and member of the football board, giving his opinion as to a guess of the probable difference between the opponents, follows:

George Washington 14, West Virginia 7.

Temple 13, Florida 6.

Pittsburgh 20, Duquesne 7.

W. & A. 14, Bethel 6.

West Virginia 21, Wash. Lee 6.

Washington 10, Wake Forest 7.

Haverford 7, Allegheny 7.

Gracie City 14, Hiram 7.

Boston University 21, Slippery Rock 0.

Ostergren Builds Well at Arlington

Beaten by Leominster, Kids Rally to Defeat Newton

This is the eighteenth in a series of winning entries to the Tufts Evening American-Sunday Advertiser School Sports Story-Write Contest. The winner, John Testa, is a senior at Arlington High. He lives at 118 Mt. Vernon street. His story appears in serial form.

By JOHN TESTA
Go Arlington Go, Go Arlington Go---Hit 'Em High, Hit 'Em Low---Go Arlington Go.

Yes sir, this cheer and many others were apropos as Arlington fought back to a spectacular 147 victory over the powerful Orange and Black Newton eleven at Warren Peace Stadium.

Although hit hard by graduation, Coach Fred Ostergren, one of the foremost high school teachers in the country and a member of the All-Scholastic board, has built up a powerful and cooperative unit, with the aid of Henry Hord, former N. Y. U. coach and one of the best scouts in the business.

College material
Fred is now in his seventh year as head coach at Arlington and has brought back a number of the position in class "A" ranks. In doing this he has established an admirable record and produced several outstanding stars during his regime.

Don McAdams, present left end at Peabody, a guard who is wearing the Holy Cross Purple.
Tom Marshall, 235-pound tackle at Holy Cross.

Bo O'Brien, a sophomore end at Holy Cross.
Arthur and Winnie O'Brien who will soon be wearing the colors of the Dartmouth Indians.

Barry Madden, Hinkley Cross and Paul Derougeon were former Arlington all-Boston players. Although there are no all-Boston players in the team, the backfield which can be made up of various formations and a strong line.

The backfield has three triple threats in Bill Hord, Mike quarterback, Ed Quinn, hard-worked fullback, and Walter Wood, a punter who is proving to be a fine ball carrier.

Must Corbett and Mahony provide the interference and are improving rapidly. Eddie Mahony, who recently reported, should stand up the attack.

LIBERATION WIGGINS
In the line Colchester Linda Blanchard and John Chapman, who played a great game at right tackle. Blanchard is a brother of Dan Blanchard, former Varsity captain, now with the Boston Shamrocks. Linda is a former in her steps and plays left guard.

Camden has been changed from his backfield post to end. He starred in the Thanksgiving Day game, when he was named the punter in the 135 yard game.

Lebanon is the hardest man on the squad with his 200 pounds. He plays a great game at right tackle. Frank Alger will fill the left tackle position. He is a former in his steps and plays left guard.

Undoubtedly, Tech, rated the most powerful school eleven in the community will be the day. Cambridge Latin in a football game at Russell Field in North Cambridge next Tuesday evening. This is another traditional gathering. And don't sell the inexperienced team too quickly.

MONTREAL, QUE. (AP)—Tommy Gorman, president of the Montreal Maroons, has announced that Desmond Smith, Ottawa star who has played with several British teams, has signed a contract with the Maroons for the 1937-38 season. Smith, a defenseman, is 23 and weighs 182.

Tufts Captain In Repair Shop
Zimman Adds Thigh Sprain to List

Whether or not Captain Rhodie Zimman, 200 pounds, will be able to play in the Rhode Island State game at Tufts tomorrow afternoon is a question which is keeping the entire Jumbo squad on edge.

Zimman has been suffering from a charley-horse ever since the start of practice, and last Saturday's game with Colby has aggravated it so he has been unable to participate in the scrimmage with any regularity all week.

Zimman already has a bad arm and a bad leg, and this thigh ailment is just more than he can stand, and indications point to his watching much of the Rhode Island game from the bench.

But the possibility of starting Don Kilby at Zimman's tackle berth, the Jumbo line repairer.
